Manager's Commentary

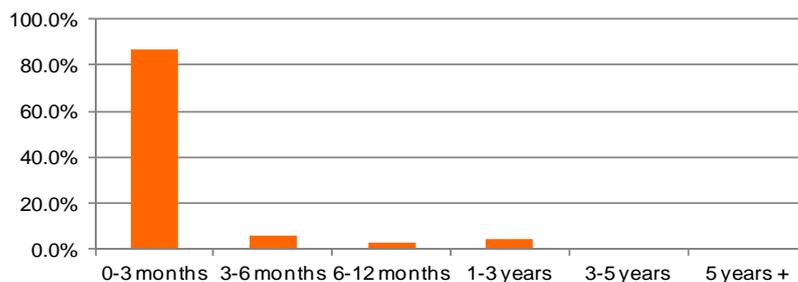

Offshore major equity markets performed solidly through the December Quarter but gave up some of the gains as crude oil and oil product prices fell precipitously in December, and some nervousness returned to markets with the attendant geo-political uncertainties in the Middle East. Base metal and precious metal prices also fell.

The Australian equity market did not fare as well as the offshore markets, and the Australian Dollar had a strong downward movement, with the commodity price falls and softer economic data causing some economists to change their forecast and now anticipate RBA rate cuts in 2015.

The Fund began the Quarter under pressure particularly with the over-supply of listed subordinated securities in early October, but managed to recover and end on a positive note by Quarter end. The recent market turbulence has not produced any issues for the Fund's investment portfolio, and the unit price has shown a stable to positive upward improvement through November and December. We continue to remain highly vigilant to markets, official pronouncements and economic data especially given the unfolding oil situation and with markets being subjected to fresh volatility as the New Year begins. The Fund continues to distribute 0.75 cents per unit for the December quarter.

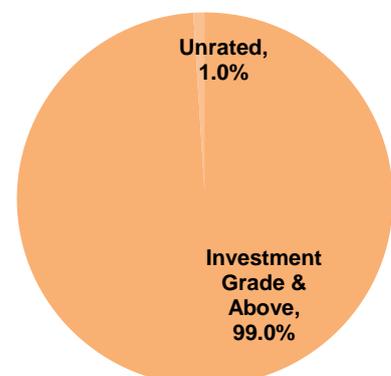

Interest Rate Reset Management

The Fund's portfolio modified duration is approximately 0.2 years. The majority of interest rates are reset every quarter. Securities with interest rates reset every quarter are not exposed to the risk of interest rate increases, unlike fixed rate investments.
