Market review

Global equity markets rebounded strongly in October, following a weak September, with the MSCI World Index gaining 5.7%. The gains were led by the US share market, with the S&P500 Index rising 7.0%. We observed the US share market posted its strongest month this year and resumed its march to record highs following last month's -5% pull back. Despite weaker than expected GDP growth and soft results from both Amazon and Apple, given ongoing supply chain disruptions and tightening in the labour market, US Q3 reporting season proved robust with the majority of companies beating earnings expectations.

Brent Oil prices rose US$6/bbl to US$84/bbl in October. Brent oil price has continued to sustain at greater than US$70/bbl. Gold prices also rose, lifting US$26 to US$1,769 against the headwinds of US Federal Reserve tightening expectations, higher yields, US Dollar strength, competition from other asset classes and persistent net selling from ETFs.

The Australian share market was on track for a gain but rolled over late in the month following a spike in Australian government bond yields as well as upward pressure on the Australian Dollar (up 4% against the US Dollar and Euro, and up 7% vs Japanese Yen). The spike in Australian government bond yields was notable in comparison to offshore equivalents. Over much of October, market expectations around central bank rate hikes increased substantially on the back of several hawkish surprises (BOC) as well as strong inflation data in Australia and New Zealand. On a sector basis, the IT (+2.1%) sector was the strongest performer despite higher bond yields, while Health Care (+1.0%), and Financials (+0.8%) also outperformed in Australia. The sectors which underperformed the most were the Industrials (-3.2%), Energy (-2.7%) and Consumer Staples (-2.3%).

This graph shows how $100,000 invested at the Fund's inception has increased to $686,100 (net of fees excluding performance fees). This compares very favourably with the return of the market, where a $100,000 investment would have increased to $507,100 over the same period. The returns exclude the benefits of imputation credits.

Performance figures have been calculated in accordance with the Financial Services Council (FSC) standards. No allowance has been made for taxation. Performance assumes the reinvestment of income distributions. Past performance is not necessarily an indicator of future performance.

Fund review & strategy

The Fund returned 0.6% for the month of October, outperformed its benchmark. It's was a month dominated by inflation concerns, rise in bond yields as we saw banks raised their home loan rates. Company commentaries from the AGM season included supply chain issues (some have inventory-built in anticipation), elevated shipping costs, higher input cost, wage pressure increasing due to restricted labour supply etc all contributing to inflationary pressure. However, the demand picture looks rosy especially for the retailers in a vaccine driven re-opening world. M & A activities remained rampant, so were equity raisings and IPOs. Contributors for the month were Macquarie Group (MQG +8.7%, solid results from very favourable market conditions and at the same time benefitted from commodity volatility), Oz Minerals (OZL +11.6% strong copper price) and Newcrest (NCM +9.9% gold stocks inflation trade, supported by lower US real rate). Detractors were Pendal Group (PDL, -19.6% short term institutional fund flow pressure but increased diversification of FUM by asset class, geography and channel is positive), BHP (-2.7%) and Fortescue (FMG -6.9%).

Two big banks reported their half year results towards end of October. ANZ and Westpac both declared dividends of around 2.5% for the Half but the share price reaction differed. ANZ was positively received due to good interest margin and better provisioning release even though cost has increased. Westpac announced a smaller than expected off-market buyback, rise in underlying cost including risk and compliance spend, fierce loan competition impacting margin. With the competitive landscape remaining intense, the structural appeal of the banking sector is limited. Earnings pressure is emerging as policy support is removed and macroprudential policies are being reintroduced to curb excesses in housing market. In general. a rising bond yield environment should benefit the sector. We continue to monitor our exposure to this sector after "harvesting" the dividends.
